

IELTS Preparation

English is one of the most popular subjects in Vietnam, and many English learners ask, “I lost my knowledge, where do I start?” “How can I memorise vocabulary?” and “How can I learn quickly?” or, in more advanced IELTS forums, “How can I get from 6.5 to 8.0, and why am I making no progress?”

www.englishtreasure.asia

Consequently, some teachers and English programmes try to manipulate learners by selling tips, hacks, and cheats to attract customers. But, if you think about it, if you only needed tips or hacks to succeed, then surely no one would ever spend years learning English.

youtube.com/EnglishTreasure

The English learning process that everyone must go through requires learning pronunciation, vocabulary, grammar, irregular verbs, collocations, idioms, and phrases. These take time, and you need to find your own methods for memorisation, such as taking notes or repetition. Find standard learning resources to hone your skills – hacks and cheats will not teach you the words you need to know. Explore the available resources and choose those that are most applicable to you, which may be different for other people. But most important of all, work hard and persistently; remember, “practice makes perfect” and “never say die!”

www.englishtreasure.asia

If hacks and cheats don’t work, what do you need to do to pass the IELTS exam?

youtube.com/EnglishTreasure

What is the best shortcut to a good IELTS score for someone whose English is bad?

Can you trick the IELTS examiner into giving you a better mark than you deserve?