

Lots of Money

What would you do if you had lots of money? If you magically found yourself with exceptional wealth, what would you buy? Some of us have rather modest dreams, like buying new furniture, an elegant musical instrument, or even a new motorcycle – just enough to make our current lives more comfortable. Others have more ambitious dreams, like buying a castle or an island or a boat. Yet others might choose to travel around the world, hopping aboard airplanes and helicopters as if they were taxis.

www.englishtreasure.asia

Yet some actually do find themselves in this situation – acquiring fabulous wealth through winning a lottery or, in the case of some young athletes, signing a professional sports contract. Many such people give in to all their fantasies and spend all their money, leaving themselves, only a few years later, without money and rejected by their false friends. Their experiences would suggest that the first priority must be to save and invest to secure the rest of your life, to buy an affordable home, and only then to start indulging your dreams.

youtube.com/EnglishTreasure

Why might ambitious dreams be a bad idea?

www.englishtreasure.asia

What kinds of people can suddenly find themselves with lots of money?

youtube.com/EnglishTreasure

What would you do if you were suddenly very wealthy?